reality! HOW IT WORKS: "My Weekly Planner" is broken up into four sections: Plan your goals for next 6 months (think about the steps you need to take and habits you need to improve). Plan your week (prioritize your week by writing down the most important things that need to be done each week, decide which day you have time for them). Plan your each day (choose the most important task you need to focus on every day which brings you one step closer to your goals, write down also less important tasks of the day).

Summary of the week (what did you achieve this week?, what do you need to improve?) Notebook specifications: Comes undated, you can start using it at any time of the year without wasting a page.

This planner is full color and undated, to be used anytime. The 52 Weekly Planner is one of the most popular choices for those setting up their own planners. It's no wonder when they offer the versatility of a day planner with the flexibility and planning power of a monthly calendar. For those not sure how much they need to use their personal planner for, a weekly planner is a great place to start. Also, the fact that they use less paper than a daily planner and are not too bulky and you get a win-win! What I love most about weekly planners is that there are so many ways you can use them. - as a traditional planner where you schedule in your appointments and tasks - use them to time block so you can easily assign bulk jobs or general categories to your work - use the single page as an overview page for quickly seeing what needs to be done that week - stick one in a picture frame and make it a reusable planner for the family - use them to keep track of fitness, diet and spending and see how you're doing each week - use them as a chore chart and help keep your family on track When it comes to the ways you can use a weekly planner I think the possibilities are limitless. They are such a versatile option, especially for anyone who is just trying to figure out what they need in a planner. Weekly planners can allow you the space to experiment and figure out ways you can use it.
