Tainted gifts. A tainted gift is a category of asset that is added to the value of the property calculated to be held by the defendant for the purposes of identifying the recoverable amount in confiscation proceedings. Realisable property, that is, property which is recoverable and available to the defendant and can therefore be used to calculate the recoverable amount for the purposes of a confiscation order, is defined in section 83 of the Proceeds of Crime Act 2002 (POCA 2002) as:
